PREFACE

THE Public Reference Library of the city of Toronto is especially rich in what for want of a better term is called loosely "Canadiana." In accordance with our view that a Library should be so organized as to make its riches known and available to those engaged in historical research, we issued a pamphlet entitled, "Books and Pamphlets Published in Canada up to the Year Eighteen Hundred and Thirty-seven, copies of which are in the Public Reference Library." At intervals since that time we have issued lists of accessions and when these will have attained such proportions as to make the undertaking worth while we shall issue a supplement.

In the meantime our energies have been directed towards a compilation of the resources of the Library in regard to that important event in our history, the Rebellion of 1837-8. This then is the second of the Series of Contributions to Canadian Bibliography issued by the Reference Division of the Public Library, and, like the preceding, is the work of Miss Frances Staton, the Head of the Reference Division.

GEORGE H. LOCKE,
Chief Librarian.
